This paper reports an investigation on a splitter and a fusion technique for a graded-index multimode optical fiber. The analysis is based on ray optics and the propagation of light in the multimode fiber is modeled by a Gaussian beam. The splitting of the beam is carried out by a fiber with a photonic bandgap. The splitter itself consists of two fibers of the same type and has a wavelength-dependent total internal reflection coefficient. Light inside the photonic bandgap is reflected back to the core and fuses with light that is moving in the gap-free region.A new deal has been agreed between Northumberland County Council and ITV Border which will see a reduction in the number of ITV Border TV programmes that are shown in the North, and an increase in the number that are shown in the South. The new deal between the TV channels will see the number of services being broadcast in the North increased by 24 and the number of services in the South reduced by 13. The news comes in the run-up to the North East Regional Assembly election on Thursday, in which Jeremy Corbyn is seeking to keep the Labour Party's control of the area. In the North the number of programmes in the Saturday and Sunday evening slots on ITV Border has been reduced from 8 to 5 and 3 respectively. ITV Border is showing the cheaper, older programmes in the evening, and is showing the more popular, newer programmes on the early morning service. In the South, the number of programmes in the Saturday evening slot is being increased from 3 to 5. The Evening News is being replaced by a daily magazine programme from 6pm. A further reduction in the number of programmes in the Saturday morning slot will be made by the redistribution. There will also be an increase in the number of programmes shown on ITV Border at lunchtime, when they will be shown on a continuous loop. The deal replaces an agreement that was in place until last December. Councillor Bill Brown, chair of the council's development control committee, said it had been a difficult negotiation, but it had been reached in the end. He said
