after the deep freeze & anti deep freeze program get installed on your computer, you can install any kind of application with or without anti deep freeze program. you can also use anti deep freeze program to create a system restore point and set a password to prevent unauthorized access, or simply enable this option in the deep freeze program settings. and to be honest, the anti deep freeze program has no effects on any of your deep freeze settings, it is just a small tool to allow you to bypass deep freeze process with an anti deep freeze tool. deep freeze is a software that can lock down your pc in a safe manner, so that any changes made by you to your pc are lost after a restart. it does this by essentially creating a complete virtual machine and running that in the background. it then monitors the user interface of that program as well as any of the files that are opened or saved to the hard disk of that program. the anti deep freeze software will detect if the computer is locked down and display a screen that allows the user to bypass the deep freeze process. by entering a password, the user can unlock their computer and get back to work. once the computer is unlocked, the changes made by deep freeze are automatically saved to the hard disk and the operating system is automatically restored to its previous state. the computer is then rebooted. once you have decided on your anti deep freeze program to use, the next step is to bypass deep freeze. anti deep freeze tools are not new, they have been around for years, but they are not actually used that much. most computer users have no idea that a anti deep freeze program is even running, let alone what it does.
