01/10/2015 Thanks for the advice everyone. I did just as you suggested and things seem to be working better now, so I'm posting this as the answer. It appears that your answer was incomplete (I had no idea this would be so difficult), so I'll repost my answer and hope this answer will be of help to others. :) Thanks! 02/09/2015 Thanks for the suggestions. I had to reinstall Windows 8.1 to get Photoshop to work, but I've reinstalled the Studio and it is working. I'll upload my workflow so others can see how I use Studio. Thanks again!
01/10/2015 Thanks for the reply. So, is this a solution for what I was having an issue with, or is there a better solution for this? When I try to make a background for a new file, Photoshop asks me to enter a color for the background. I do this, but then Photoshop crashes when I try to make a new file. Is this a known issue? I'd be happy to try any other solutions, but I'd like to be able to use the product without having to reinstall. Thanks! Hi again, Unfortunately I didn't know about Photoshop Create Background or Photoshop Camera Background. These are new options added in CS5.0. You can still use them from CS6 (those are only. Both programs are called: Backgrounds panel. You can find them from: Window > Quick Access. There is also option to use "designer background". If you use custom background, that will be what you call in CS6. One tip: you can use a default one (for example by selecting the image from the PS folder) or you can set a colour for every image and change that colour to your liking in the "backgrounds panel". 01/10/2015 Thanks again. I'll see if I can find them. 01/10/2015 You can create a solid fill on the background of a document, or a gradient fill on the background of a document. I have a solid fill on the background of every document (as a default). To make a custom background, you first create

Q: Generate a single row text file from a column in sqlite table I have a sqlite table in which I have an autoincrementing ID column and the associated TEXT column. Is there a way I can generate a single row.txt file with the ID field in first column and the TEXT column in a single row line. The TEXT column will have some text in it. A simple example would be an output something like this: 123|aaa 124|bbb A: I'm not sure about sqlite in particular. However, you can create a file on the filesystem from a command line or with a script. I'm going to assume you're using a shell script. First, create a file with the desired name and use a loop to iterate over the items in the column. The script would be something like:

#!/bin/bash
database=/path/to/file.db
if [ ! -f "$database" ]; then echo

"Error: $database not found" exit 1 fi inserted_id="$(sqlite3 "$database" "SELECT id FROM table")" while read -r -- "$inserted_id"; do printf "%-2s|%-36s " "${inserted_id// /}" "$file" done < <(sqlite3 "$database" "SELECT column FROM table") rm "$file" And you'd 04aeff104c
