I'm not here to argue for you to adopt Photoshop or maybe even for you to consider switching; to be honest, whatever you decide I understand. However, I will say this: there are some key reasons to use Photoshop and every week I choose a different one to promote. Soon, people who own a Samsung smartphone will be able to install the new Photoshop app, adding to the many image-editing apps already available for Windows phones. The new Photoshop app will be able to replace old versions of the OS's stock image editor, as well as use its own set of tools. I have been using Photoshop for years and was surprised when I found out that the latest version of Photoshop, CS6, was not even released yet! Normally, the first version of a new product released is the version I upgrade to. To be frank, there are a lot of changes in the new version and I do not know if I will be happy with some of the changes.
