How to get the URL query string value and store it in a JavaScript variable? Some of the web pages I am dealing with don't have URL href as follows In this case the value = value should be stored in a JavaScript variable. A: Try this function. It works on window.location.href, its the same as window.location.search. Also works on document.location. function getQueryString(key) { if (window.location.href) { return window.location.href.split('?')[1].split('&')[0]; } else { return document.location.search.split('?')[1].split('&')[0]; } } console.log(getQueryString("query")); Q: Add command that removes all files in Directory after added in Add-ins to Office 2013 I have created a simple add-in for Word 2013. The add-in adds a folder to the document, and then process the files in the folder and add all of them into a new file and saves it to another folder. I have created a command button to perform the action. The add-in has the following code. public void Application_ItemAdd(IRibbonControl control) { string[] dirs = Directory.GetDirectories(@"D:\My Documents\folderA"); string[] files = Directory.GetFiles(@"D:\My Documents\folderA", "*.txt"); if (dirs.Length > 6d1f23a050
