The film is a sex comedy about an engineer who is sent to a remote village and his city-born modern wife has to go to live in the countryside, also. As soon as we arrived, I saw several houses built of wood, and one of them was built in the style of a village. Throughout the village there were many small farms, with cows, oxen, horses. There was a mill that ground flour, which was sold in the bazaars. I couldn't believe that it was the village I saw on the map, I didn't believe that I would see the village in reality. It was a real village, as I imagined it. But when I saw all this, I thought it was my dream.
