If you have heard about this feature and want to experience it, then you will know why the author team chose to call it a keyer. The way this feature works is quite simple. You set your mouse to move in a line or a curve, and when you move the mouse, the keys of the keyboard are pressed as per the keyer slider that you have set in the settings of the software. This feature can be used as a workhorse to produce a song or a sound effect quickly. You can set the release point and adjust the velocity curve for the movement, and the software will play the song/sound effect as you move your mouse. You don't need to be an expert with multimedia application, as your input can be recorded in the form of MIDI, just like any other software that you are familiar with.
