BlizzCon 2019 opening ceremony left us with a view above Icecrown Citadel,Ä .Sunflower seed oil, also known as Chinese oil, was used traditionally as a remedy for skin disorders such as eczema, psoriasis and leukoderma. Now, it is widely used to treat a number of skin ailments, and it has also been found to be useful as a topical treatment for the signs and symptoms of acne. Sunflower seed oil is extracted by pressing the seeds and removing the oil, while the oil-rich parts are discarded. The extracted oil has been reported to decrease sebum production in sebaceous glands. This results in a smooth, soft skin. Oil-induced acne is a type of facial acne that mainly manifests itself on the upper forehead, nose and chin. This occurs in virtually all oil-based facial cleansers. When such facial cleansers come into contact with the oil on the skin's surface, they can penetrate the sebaceous glands and clog them. The result is a blocked sebaceous duct and consequently acne. Dermal oil Dermal oil is produced by sebocytes, or sebaceous glands. Dermal oil helps protect against the damaging effects of free radicals, which are potentially damaging by-products of cellular metabolism. Free radicals are responsible for causing damage to the human body and also in the aging process. Dermal oil also protects the skin from UV rays that can cause sunburn and aging. Sunflower seed oil contains linoleic acid, which has been found to reduce the production of free radicals in the body. Dermal oil also contains vitamin E, a powerful antioxidant. Dermal oil also contains vitamin A, which is an essential nutrient that helps the skin cell turnover. As a result, an oily skin that uses this oil over a long period of time is less likely to suffer damage from the free radicals in the body. Dermal oil is also naturally low in polyunsaturated fats, which are major factors
