had the same issue. I installed the driver from the software center and it completely worked. I wonder how you've managed to do it with Sysinternals Process Explorer, although it is a workaround. Anyways I'd like to say, besides process explorer, I don't know of any other way to fix it. My best advice is to reinstall Lenovo Quick Search.

Construction of a safe, low-density, urethane form-stable, polypropylene-urethane film packaging line: final technological step for safe, stable and low-density food packaging. Safe, form-stable and low-density food packaging is required to minimize moisture transfer to packaged food and to prevent product contamination. Despite the many advantages of this packaging, low-density food packaging is still impractical for most food-processing facilities. In this study, polypropylene (PP) films and PP-urethane composite films were prepared and used to develop a safe low-density, polypropylene-urethane (PP-UP) film form-stable packaging line. The effects of temperature, nozzle temperature, and operating parameters on the thickness and quality of the film were investigated using response surface methodology. The optimal factors were determined to be temperature of 120°C, nozzle temperature of 20°C, and pressure of 19 atm. The line was successfully developed and was shown to have good film form-stability under all conditions. A moisture sorption and mechanical performance evaluation of the line 570a42141b
