When looking for a password or lost serial number to activate your product or software with, check the “Account” tab on the Product & Service page, scroll down to the “Serial Number or Product Key” section and look for your product or software’s serial number and product key. You can also find a serial number or product key by accessing your Autodesk Account at www.account.autodesk.com. On the Product & Service page, go to your Autodesk Account and look for the “Your Product Information” section. The product serial number is listed on the right hand side, under the product name. If you are unsure what serial number belongs to your product, click the View Serial Number button on the My Product information page. You can upgrade your existing software or replace your current serial number with a newer serial number that was recently assigned to your Autodesk Account. In order to upgrade your software or replace your serial number, you need to purchase a software license or upgrade rights from the My Account page or by contacting Customer Service. Autodesk Account Serial Number: Your serial number is a seven character alphanumeric value. The first character is always “0”. In order to have your Autodesk Account serial number displayed on the Product & Service page, you must add your account information to the Site configuration.
