-You play as a black mage who wears a skull mask and a black robe. -Your main task is to travel back in time to the Lost Age of Baldur's Gate, fight Dhalgors and destroy the Obliviators who corrupt the time lines, so the future can return to normal. About the Game: -Good Game Project is a new gaming group that brought together some big names of the gaming industry. We are getting ready to launch this crowdfunding project for a game we call "Snowblind". We are proud to present these demo images. The demo will be complete this spring. We have much to share with you about the game. For the moment we want to say that it is a game that you are going to enjoy. We hope you enjoy it too. If you have any questions, feel free to give us a follow on Facebook: "GoodGameProject" I want to say that the game looks great so far. I am a big fan of Icewind Dale and Icewind Dale 2. The artwork is really good. I really like the concept of making a game set in the Forgotten Realms. The setting is interesting, but I'm also excited to see what kind of gameplay it will have, since I haven't played much fantasy before. The character models look nice. I hope the game lets me create my own character. The RPG elements seem well thought out. If the game has a party formation aspect, I hope it lets me have my character follow a party or lead a party. I know you've said in past updates that the game will have many different zones. I hope there are many different dungeons and enemy factions for me to fight. The game looks like it will have several different paths to take. I hope they will give me different options and allow me to choose what path I would like to take. Sorry if I haven't covered some things. I'm not trying to be rude, but I'm excited to see what is in the game. War has begun. A powerful sorceress has opened portals to dark realms. An empire is conspiring to invade your world. The forces of good and evil stand on the brink of chaos, Armageddon approaches and you are the last hope. Will you stand alone or unite the realms in a struggle to determine your future, a struggle that will decide whether you live, or die? The Campaign has seen much improvement recently and it is now fully playable from d41b202975

Review by dxnably Your rating: 2 Wow! These guys are nuts! We have a slingshot, a pony, and a fiery new challenge. But they wont win any awards! Review by russle123235436 Your rating: 3 This is a fun, simple but addicting game. You have to find coins hidden by a man as your time is running out. But you can also collect gems and diamonds while your at it. This would be fun for younger kids or adults who want to play a simple game with a simple goal.Gameplay Project: Carneval Review by jonnybarker4194 Your rating: 3 Nice simple graphics and easy controls. I have fun playing this game and we thought it was simple enough to play with our three year old.Gameplay Project: Snowblind Review by espertf Your rating: 1 I havent played this one, but from what i've heard its very cheap. And they should put there money where there mouth is. This is supposed to be a a Very good game... but then it turned out to be... A HORRIBLE game Review by Portmang Your rating: 1 This is one of those games you must love, or hate. If you hate it, then take this negative review as an opportunity to seek out some one to beat up!Gameplay Project: Stellar Jungle Review by Mobystar Your rating: 3 Ok, this one is a kiddy game, but I just couldnt get my 3 year old interested. But I think it may get him interested in video games.Gameplay Project: The Flower Review by trek Your rating: 3 There is no in game instruction, but this game is great! It teaches you about the great game Tetris... all about being able to do it in 3rds!Gameplay Project: Snowblind Review by BestReviewer Your rating: 5 Snowblind? Sure why not. When you first start playing you might think there is a storyline and as you keep playing and even if you go back to older levels you may not see that at first glance. But just when you think it may be heading into that direction its just back and forth where you go from screen to screen. I would love to see someone else play this game though and have you know that there is some story to be read. Gameplay Project: Rising Stars Review by drplil Your rating: 4 It is kinda similar to the old 50 Cents but not quite. Its basic like the — ATOMIC BEAST I'd like to first thank all of the contributors of this KDE project - thank you for your hard work, as you all know, for quite some time now, the project has been 'maintained' by wodden5 and iPythonic) Now, the reason I stopped this project, after, I believe, cHao xtrakuss has provided a much more detailed reasoning, the reason is simply I'm exhausted of the speculations that come in threads like this, in forums like this and in blogs like this. I've had plenty enough time of dealing with WTFs, very disruptive, upset and negative behaviour from some individuals, lashing out at my replies to users; my work, my software and my name etc etc. Having gone through this, I feel, as I said, exhausted. I'm fed up of explaining that honestly I'm a guy, not a God or Black Swan of some product, that I don't have the answers to your diagnostic problems or WTF issues etc. What I want to do about this, is to continue, in my own way, to attempt to continue the project in 'parallel' to the main KDE project. Only some of the staff members at the KDE project are aware of what's going on here. However, it will be much better to have it documented here in the wiki and so forth - the KDE project, as I said and wodden5 has stated quite accurately, has the authority to pull this project and close it, at its sole discretion and I certainly don't want to step on that tiger's back - I've got enough painful things and stress to deal with at the moment. I have no intention of dropping Kubuntu from it as my main 2D operating system, that is to say, the KDE project as a whole - Linux has come a long way with respect to its evolution but, Linux in general it still has a LONG way to go in terms of maturity of Linux as a concept, and Linux is still not mature as an OS. Of course I have to deal with vast differences in understanding between different groups and leaders of the Linux community and how it works, and how it SHOULD work, and how it does work, and how it WOULD/MAY work in the future. This is not about how I feel about
