HAAR. DON'T LET IT BE TRUE THAT. although it eases some of the dis t"ue- ness in the North Carolina Water Quality Standards, it does not affect the program's. NEW YORK CITYÂ . i Commission said in a letter to the Chief of Apparel...Q: How can I set a shader to use the same texture as a shader parameter in Cycles? I am trying to use a blender brush with the same texture as a shader parameter. I have tried using the Meta parameter as follows: I then render the brush with the canvas as a viewport (instead of the 3D Viewport), to test that the texture is rendering to a render texture: However, when I view the render texture, the texture is blank. I am using Blender 2.77. How can I get the texture to render to the render texture? My render output is set as follows: A: You need to use the Meta property for the viewport render to match the viewport texture. The render you create with the viewport render output is used for the preview. Q: Is there a way to reduce the value of a checkbox (avoiding space) within a Form I have a form with a checkbox. When the user ticks the checkbox, the value of a couple of fields is reduced. When the user does not tick the box, the value of these fields is returned to its original value. I found a thread explaining how to create the Javascript to achieve this, however I am still confused on how to implement it within a Form. This is the Javascript I have at the moment:

function chkChange() { if(document.frm.chk.checked) document.frm.lbl.innerHTML = '-1'; else document.frm.lbl.innerHTML = '-0'; }
```

 I attempted to change document.frm.lbl to lbl and then change the innerHTML, however this did not work. Here is the format of the checkbox.
