What's new in Wingspan: European Expansion:

Epistle from Iron Tau — The ADOS Campaign THE REAL-WORLD SPHERICAL PATTERN AND THE EXISTENTIAL ENVIRONMENT The geometric design on the Terran imperial armor signifies the existential environment surrounding the Terran Imperium of Solaris. Such an environment appears to favor the life of light-winged races, and the purpose of Imperial armor seems to be the extension of a soldier's life span during a conflict. However, life can pursue a variety of goals, depending on its metaphysical geometry. The Spheres of the Universe The idea of a single, continuous universe, that is a world in which all beings move in time, conforms to a geometrical paradigm. Before this modern paradigm came into being, it was common knowledge that all beings exist in a single, continuous universe, for there was no need for two parallel universes. The harmonic nature of this single universe - the universe of light - can only be experienced when linear time is eliminated. It is impossible to experience the universe of light if you are moving within the limits of the linear time. But our spatial concept is twisted. We would rather experience the universe of light along a timeline than conceive of it as a spherical universe. Time, for us, does not exist before it exists. We have never lived in the universe of light. We have never moved through space at the speed of light. We have been open-eyed and free only for the last 150 years. Life cannot exist within the confines of a continuum in linear time. If we were to fix a time when the concept of space, or the movement of beings, does not exist, we would be the one to live in a continuum of time. And we would be permeated by time. Gravity Human beings possess a number of shortcomings. However, one thing that we do share with the celestial bodies is the speed of electromagnetic radiation. Our body emits electromagnetic waves of all frequencies. Most, however, do not match the wavelength of visible light. We can see more easily at those wavelengths within the spectrum than at others. If the electromagnetic energy we emit did not occur for the entire span of a minute, but instead within a sliver, we would continue to see, even if visible light ceases to exist. A common belief is that the sun causes our body to move. However, the cause for the movement may not be the sun. The sun merely provides light for us to
