An innovative new control system means that players will be able to feel what they do through authentic movement animations. These animations are one of the biggest features in FIFA 22, allowing players to experience a true and accurate representation of playing football in a way never before possible. With a host of new moves, celebrations and skills, the attack and defence have been brought to the next level in FIFA 22. Players can now take aerial duels with increasing precision and greater variety of animations thanks to the new Active Dribble, which allows dribblers to grapple and overcome defenders to reach the byline or penalty area. A new Run & Ball Control system allows players to control the ball with greater speed and accuracy when attacking or defending. New Dribbling and Skill moves allow dribblers to overcome defenders with pace and glide. The Men In Motion (MIM) System provides intelligent movement cues throughout the match, with specific animations triggered depending on where players are positioned on the pitch. When tactical changes occur, players will receive relevant animation cues. Players can now interact with other players during tackles, while all-new Defending Cues allow players to dive, trap and intercept a ball. With RealPlayer Skill Shot Effects, players are given the ability to make amazing chip shots and put on goals to win the game. There are no longer limits to the type of shots that can be executed, with players able to express themselves through new shots. Full-time players can now perform flicks, volleys, riffs and backflips. The Share Stadium Concept is a new functionality that allows players to share and customize their stadiums through FIFA Ultimate Team, which will be available in FIFA 20 for PC and PlayStation 4 as a pre-order bonus. In FIFA 21, players were able to share their stadium with friends to unlock free packs. In FIFA 22, players can share their stadiums with friends in real life and use real world currency to unlock pack items and other in-game bonuses. A new dedicated FIFA Ultimate Team card gallery shows fans the incredible range of items on offer in FIFA Ultimate Team. Players can use real-world currency to purchase packs from their stadium to add to their Ultimate Team and use their newly unlocked team mates to unlock special packs. Players will also be able to use their Ultimate Team card gallery to take a picture and use it to unlock bonus items, gifts and icons. In addition, players can display their unique Ultimate Team card catalogue in their friends
