At some point I need to clone a repository on the remote machine. As it seems like Ansible does not have a built-in tool to copy files, I have to do it manually. My issue is: I know how to copy files from the remote machine, but how can I know which files are installed on the local machine? That is: I know that this particular playbook is installed in a directory /opt/ansible/ansible-2.2.1, but I don't know which files of the repository are installed in the local machine. Is there any
