In the world between the lands, lords wander, free from the troubled world that surrounds the Elden Ring. Of course, sometimes the world outside the Land Between has problems as well, and these troubles are called "Tarnished" and "Unresolved." Tarnished and Unresolved are important parts of society, but these problems grow as they consume the resources of the Land Between. As the lords keep Tarnished and Unresolved as low-grade goods, the lords maintain these regions in order to maintain the land and resources. However, the Tarnished or Unresolved that have existed since the old days have become a problem in the Land Between. This time, as the lords who are struggling, are carrying out a revolution with the aid of the Star, who is a spellcaster wielding the power of the magic sent to the world between. While the lords are fighting to prevent the war, Tarnished and Unresolved is more and more becoming a powerful force that consumes all the resources of the Land Between. In this battle between the lords and Tarnished and Unresolved, a Tarnished lord is sought out by a Rune, a mysterious and powerful class of magic in the world between. Even as they have a mission to succeed, the Rune will be attacked by Tarnished lords. The Rune will be delivered into the hands of a Lord who is not tarnished and is not unhappy. Battery-Electric Vehicle of the Year Audi e-tron quattro BMW i3 Nissan Leaf Tesla Model S Volkswagen e-Golf With the announcement that BMW will be partnering with Volkswagen to produce a rival to the Model 3, it seems only logical to note that BMW will be throwing its full support behind Audi's electric e-tron quattro platform. How can you not? Audi did such a good job of polishing its version of the e-tron line-up, I can't help but to look at it fondly. It's the first all-electric car with a bunch of cool cool tech like the panoramic glass roof that is going to be standard across the line. Those of you who are familiar with the e-tron line-up know that its name alludes to the legendary racetrack Audi Sport formerly run by Audi Sport Development (ASD). ASD is the same team that built some of the first internal combustion Audi R18s and R8s, and took them to one of the legendary tracks around the world. There's a new team of engineers behind the e-tron line-up, so they've had time to develop a few new tricks for the range-topping version of Audi's first all-electric model. Audi e-tron quatt
