ScreenshotsQ: Dynamic chart where horizontal lines in chart are not changed when value of Y axis changes I have the following chart: I would like to have a horizontal line in chart for some value of y axis: As you can see, changing the value of y axis does not change the width of the lines. How can I do it? A: You can do this by specifying your own X value range for each line, rather than using the system's range. It's an easy change:

google.charts.load('current', { packages: ['corechart'] }).then(drawChart); function drawChart() { var data = google.visualization.arrayToDataTable([ ['x', 'y'], ['May 2', 1.0], ['May 3', 2.0], ['May 5', 3.0], ['May 6', 4.0], ['May 7', 5.0] ]); var options = { seriesType: 'bars', width: 1000, height: 300, chartArea: { left: 100, top: 10, width: '100%' }, vAxis: { minValue: 1, title: 'x' }, hAxis: { minValue: 1, title: 'y' }

----- NOTICE: With this method, I claim that the resulting watermark is removed and it will leave a "ghost" on your videos. This is because the original watermark is stored in the system and will be added to the videos, and the new original video can only be extracted by downloading a zip archive of the video stream, decompressing it and extracting the video. This is the method you need to do it. The framework and documentation for the Rack middleware for Rack::Amanda::UserWebAgent has been released on GitHub. This middleware will allow you to authenticate users of Rack::Amanda::UserWebAgent via Rack::Session::Cookie. How does it work? This middleware will extend Rack::Session::Cookie middleware to include two new methods for identifying the user. These methods are: * UserWebAgent#user_id - This method should return a user id string as defined by the user agent. * UserWebAgent#user_id_from_cookies - This method should attempt to return the user id in a cookie that was set by Rack::Session::Cookie. Example - "Set-Cookie" Header 2edc1e01e8

What's New in the ReadReddit?

Extract text from Reddit posts. More information: Troubleshoot readReddit

Safari users, have no fear. Although you may not be able to use the extension in the latest version of Safari, readReddit is still compatible with both versions 7 and 8. This is because the site's javascript doesn't work properly in Safari 10 and 11, so it is impossible to extract text from a post or comment. You can always go to the source Although it is great to use an extension that provides you with more functionality, it is a shame if the extension's source code is too hard to understand. Despite the claims to the contrary, you can download the source code of readReddit by visiting the GitHub repository. Let us know what you think about this extension in the comments below. If you are often on IRC, the infamous and old IRC chat network, you will probably be familiar with NickServ, an online service that helps users identify themselves to other users. The service allows users to change their nickname and send a message that can be read by other users. Other than the welcome message that is usually sent to new users, NickServ can also send a confirmation message. To do so, users must type "NICKSERV" followed by the new nickname, followed by the message. For example, "NICKSERV mynewnick". In an IRC network, if another user sees this message, it usually means that a new user has joined the chat and that it is their turn to identify themselves. In many cases, this will also trigger a welcome message from the original user who sent the message to NickServ. Having a unique NickServ is a great way to identify your self in an IRC chat room. NickServ manual NickServ allows users to change their nickname. To do so, type the command /msg NickServ REGISTER mynick If you are already registered on NickServ, you should be able to change your nickname directly from the command line: /msg NickServ REGISTER mynewnick If you want to verify the registration, you can use the command /msg NickServ VERIFY mynick You can also check the NickServ status of any user you want to identify yourself with: /msg NickServ NICKSERV mynick On most IRC networks, users should also be able to change the nick that appears at the beginning of the welcome message: /nick mynewnick Changing your nickname on IRC If you have a nickname on a network but you want to change it, the best option is to ask for help. One of the people in the channel you are connected to is likely to know how to do so. To ask for help, type the following on your
