Three U.S. airmen were missing and presumed dead after the crash of a B-52 bomber on the night of Aug. 6 in South Korea, the Air Force said Thursday. The four men were found dead aboard the aircraft when a search and rescue team recovered it Monday, about 50 miles north of Paju Air Base in South Korea, according to Col. Thad Steckman, a military spokesman. They were en route to Daegu Air Base when the incident occurred. The aircraft is from an Air Force Reserve Command unit based at Spence Field, S.C. "I can confirm we have a crew in transit home from the Korean peninsula and remain confident in the crew's safety," Steckman said. The incident is under investigation, Steckman said.
