Â· Diagnostic utility of Cervical Cytology and HPV DNA testing in Predicting the Occurrence of Cervical Precancer in asymptomatic women.
The goal was to assess the diagnostic utility of cytology and HPV testing in predicting the occurrence of cervical precancer in a population of asymptomatic HIV-seronegative women. This retrospective, longitudinal study enrolled 765 women. Cytologic and HPV tests were performed at enrollment and every 6 months for 18 months. The main outcome was an end point of cervical precancer development with biopsy confirmation. A total of 43 women (5.5%) developed cervical precancer. The distribution of cytology results with respect to HPV DNA positivity was as follows: atypical squamous cells of undetermined significance, 333 (88.6%); atypical squamous cells, cannot exclude high-grade squamous intraepithelial lesion, 12 (3.3%); low-grade squamous intraepithelial lesion, 20 (5.4%); high-grade squamous intraepithelial lesion, eight (2.1%); and squamous cell carcinoma, one (0.3%). The prevalence of precancer was significantly higher in HPV-positive women than in HPV-negative women (OR, 7.01; 95% CI: 2.53 to 19.37). The area under the receiver operating characteristic curves of a positive HPV test (0.83) was significantly higher than that of a negative cytology (0.60; PS.D.Ala.2010), aff'd, 462 Fed. A: Ya lo hice y me funciona. Lo que hice es que se comprueba si ya existe la carpeta usando la funcion `GetFileFromPath()` y para cada carpeta en el directorio donde se instale la aplicacion se comprueba si existe un archivo con.pdf. Si esta disponible se usa una nueva instancia de `WebBrowserClient` para mostrar el documento.

private void button1_Click(object sender, RoutedEventArgs e) { ///! Se crea un nuevo contexto para webbrowser
    WebBrowser wcBrowser = new WebBrowser();
