Lumina Word & PowerPoint Product Support Manual - You want to link Microsoft Word and Microsoft Powerpoint document to the same task, but only one can accept the link. That happens because both programs share a very similar folder structure. Each program can be linked to any folder in the same way, by using the same method. However, one folder will accept the link while the other will not. The reasons the second folder will not accept the link vary, because each program has a different structure. Therefore, if both programs share a folder, you need to change which program is the root folder. Make the root folder for the other program different from the folder that it contains.
